Title: Pagan Reagents

Author: Xellos
-----

This book addresses the reagents that are not commonly found in this world. Stuff other than Bloodmoss or Mandrake Root or that sort. The stuff that is truly Pagan. Schools of Magic

(N)ecromancy
(T)heurgy
(S)orcery
(TEM)pestry
(TH)aumaturgy

Blackmoor (N)
Power

A mixture of a substance named Blackrock and common dirt.

Bone (N)
Summoning & Communication

Bone from any living creature. The more important the bone the better.
Blood (N)
Movement & Animation

The essence of life. Generally taken only from sentient beings. Stored in vials.
Dirt (N)
Protection

Strong dirt taken from around the trees and plants it once protected. Used in making Blackmoor.

Executioners Hood N
Death

A blackish fungus shaped like the hood
of an executioner.
Found only on ground
soiled by blood.
Wood (N)
Preservation
Binding

A twig taken from a healthy tree above the age of 1000 years.
Brimstone (S)
Power

A heat tempered stone with close to a perfect etheral matrix making it the powerhouse of Sorcery.
Daemon Bone (S)
Summoning
Binding

The bone of a Daemon.
It retains the magical nature of the Daemon
it belonged to.
Obsidian (S)
Duration
Stamina

Quite fragile when force is applied to it, yet it endures the heat of a volcano.
Pig Iron (S)
Protection

Hard, yet malliable Iron taken from pagan ore. Some believe Sorcerers enchant the ore during refining.
Pumice (S)
Distance

A volcanic stone thrown far away from the volcano
during erruption.
Volcanic Ash (S)
(Not Sulfuric Ash)
Flame

Warm and still full of flaming embers, this reagent is highly flamable.

Eye of Newt (TH)

Sight

Knowledge

The eye taken from a live newt. Right eyes are typically more powerful.

Bat Wing (TH)

Life

Creatures

The left wing of a bat
no more than a day old still contains the essence of its life.

Serpent Scale (TH)

Destruction

Separation

Poison from the serpent seeps into the flesh and scales
making them

Dragon Blood (TH)

Great Power

The powerful magic that pulses through the dragon, contained in a vile. Chaotic in nature.

! WARNING !

Users of Dragons

Blood, measure your quantities with the greatest care as the chaotic nature of the blood is dangerous.

Blackrock (Other)

Chaotic Power

While not a true Reagent in the sense that it is not used for any traditional spellcasting, Blackrock has been used for its highly complex ethereal structure which acts as a focus for high level magical spells.

Blackrock also tends to weaken the interdimensional matrix surrounding it and is used in almost all types of advanced gate spells as a trigger device of sorts. There are theories that Blackrock erodes the sanity of sentient life in proximity to it and prolonged exposure could possibly cause memory lapses and mental illness. Blackrock is found naturally in some veins of mines as a product called 'Shadow Ore' to the uninitiated. Shadow Ore is pure blackrock without the magical alignment necessary to create such a powerful etheral matrix. It is suspected that extreme magnetic forces can properly convert Shadow Ore to Blackrock. A note to users of armor or weapons made using Shadow Ore, due to the lack of proper alignment, these items are not in any sense Blackrock and therefore do not have the magical abilities that Blackrock poseses. Impure Shadow Ore, commonly wasted in the refining process, is needed to create the Reagent Blackmoor along with specially prepared dirt.
